Subject: Give Microsoft hell

I think the consumer will be better served if Microsoft is broken up and Bill Gates goes to jail. Filing an anti-trust law suit against Microsoft is probably the only good thing the Clinton administration did. Of course they fouled that up also. Bill Gates and Microsoft are the same kind of obstacle to progress and free enterprise that Bell telephone was. Maybe worse. Liberty and the consumer are not served when one person or company is able to thwart the development of new technologies that would be good for the consumer. Microsoft is a blatant obstacle to competition and free enterprise.

On this issue I strongly disagree with USDOJ.
